Senior designer working in interaction and service design roles. Most recently leading design for the new apply for legal aid service (MoJ) and Marine Management Organisation inspection tool (Defra). I've also worked on multiple internal and public-facing BBC products and headed up design at a tech start-up across both responsive web and native apps.

I like being proactive and involved in all aspects of the design process. My experience in both small and large agile teams has strengthened my ability to communicate clearly and get people behind my designs.
